

Contents

List of Figures	vii
List of Tables	xi
List of Abbreviations	xiii
Notes on Contributors	xv
Series Preface	xxi
Crowdsourcing Our Cultural Heritage: Introduction	1
Mia Ridge
PART I: CASE STUDIES
1 Crowdsourcing in Brooklyn	17
Shelley Bernstein
2 Old Weather : Approaching Collections from a Different Angle	45
Lucinda Blaser
3 ‘Many Hands Make Light Work. Many Hands Together Make Merry Work’: Transcribe Bentham and Crowdsourcing Manuscript Collections	57
Tim Causer and Melissa Terras
4 Build, Analyse and Generalise: Community Transcription of the Papers of the War Department and the Development of Scripto	89
Sharon M. Leon
5 What’s on the Menu? : Crowdsourcing at the New York Public Library	113
Michael Lascarides and Ben Vershbow
6 What’s Welsh for ‘Crowdsourcing’? Citizen Science and Community Engagement at the National Library of Wales	139
Lyn Lewis Dafis, Lorna M. Hughes and Rhian James
7 Waisda? : Making Videos Findable through Crowdsourced Annotations	161
Johan Oomen, Riste Gligorov and Michiel Hildebrand

- 8 Your Paintings Tagger: Crowdsourcing Descriptive Metadata for a National Virtual Collection 185
Kathryn Eccles and Andrew Greg

PART II: CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES OF CULTURAL HERITAGE CROWDSOURCING

- 9 Crowding Out the Archivist? Locating Crowdsourcing within the Broader Landscape of Participatory Archives 211
Alexandra Eveleigh
- 10 How the Crowd Can Surprise Us: Humanities Crowdsourcing and the Creation of Knowledge 231
Stuart Dunn and Mark Hedges
- 11 The Role of Open Authority in a Collaborative Web 247
Lori Byrd Phillips
- 12 Making Crowdsourcing Compatible with the Missions and Values of Cultural Heritage Organisations 269
Trevor Owens
- Index* 281

List of Figures

- 1.1 The online evaluation tool used for Click! A Crowd-Curated Exhibition allowed participants to view images and rate them on a sliding scale. Screenshot: Brooklyn Museum Website 22
- 1.2 Click! A Crowd-Curated Exhibition was installed in the Brooklyn Museum from 27 June to 10 August 2008. Photograph: Brooklyn Museum 24
- 1.3 The online evaluation tool designed for Split Second: Indian Paintings displayed two objects side by side and asked participants to select as quickly as possible which painting they preferred from the pair. Screenshot: Brooklyn Museum Website 26
- 1.4 Split Second: Indian Paintings culminated in an exhibition at the Brooklyn Museum which ran from 13 July 2011 to 1 January 2012. Photograph: Brooklyn Museum 27
- 1.5 1,708 artists throughout Brooklyn registered to open their studios for GO. Map: Brooklyn Museum 32
- 1.6 GO neighbourhood coordinators worked throughout the project at the local level to connect artists, voters and volunteers, often through meetups held at small venues. Photograph: Brooklyn Museum 34
- 1.7 Every participating GO artist was assigned a unique number; voters would visit studios and use this number to log their visit by text message, through the GO app, or by writing it down and later entering it on the GO website. Photograph: Brooklyn Museum 35
- 1.8 During the open studio weekend, approximately 18,000 people logged 147,000 studio visits to artists throughout Brooklyn. Photograph: Brooklyn Museum 36
- 1.9 GO: a community-curated open studio project opened at the Brooklyn Museum on 1 December 2012 and ran through 24 February 2013. Photograph: Brooklyn Museum 39
- 3.1 The Transcribe Bentham 'Transcription Desk' platform 62
- 3.2 The Transcribe Bentham transcription interface, and transcription toolbar 64
- 3.3 Transcribe Bentham results, 8 September 2010 to 19 July 2013 66
- 3.4 Upgraded Transcription Desk in 'maximised' mode, showing rotated image, transcription toolbar and tabbed transcription interface 69