A Letter from Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg

Dear Friends:

Welcome to New York City. Ours is the world's greatest City, and you're visiting during an especially exciting period of growth and change.

For all of the attractions that make New York City wonderful—from shopping to theater to cuisine, we offer options to fit every taste—we pride ourselves most on our diversity: more than 200 languages are spoken on our streets, and men and women from every world culture live side by side, contributing to the vibrant life of the City. It's especially important to us that disabled residents and visitors have the opportunity to experience everything our City has to offer, and we hope that this redesigned, updated guide will help you do just that.

Last year, we welcomed a record 46 million visitors, and we are drawing ever closer to our goal of attracting 50 million guests annually by 2012. The information on these pages will be an invaluable resource as you enjoy the five boroughs—but if you have any additional questions, remember, Just Ask The Locals.™ Nobody knows our neighborhoods better than the people who call New York City home, and they will be happy to offer tips on the best entertainment, food, shopping and more throughout the City.

On behalf of our residents, thank you for coming to New York City—enjoy your stay!

Sincerely,

Michael R. Bloomberg
Mayor

Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities nyc.gov/mopd

The Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities (MOPD), established in 1973, serves as a liaison between City government and disabled individuals, as well as organizations dedicated to improving the lives of New Yorkers with disabilities. MOPD provides policy recommendations to the mayor and works with City agencies and private individuals and organizations to improve the quality of life for people with disabilities.

As New York City's only borough that's part of the US mainland, the Bronx has many a scenic landscape in addition to its cultural offerings. Pelham Bay Park is the northeast anchor and, at more than 2,700 acres, is the largest public park in the City. The park fronts the Long Island Sound and City Island, an enclave housing seafood restaurants and marinas lined with sailboats. Other notable sites include Arthur Avenue—the Little Italy of the Bronx—the Bronx Museum of the Arts, the Bronx Zoo, the New York Botanical Garden and Wave Hill, a public garden and cultural center overlooking the Hudson River.

Across the East River from Manhattan lies Brooklyn, the City's most populous borough. It's also one whose neighborhoods are regarded as much for their atmosphere as for their attractions. Start by crossing the Brooklyn Bridge—a scenic route that lands you a short distance from Brooklyn Heights, with its historic brown-stones, tree-lined streets and promenade overlooking the Manhattan skyline. Other popular neighborhoods are Williamsburg, Park Slope, Cobble Hill, Carroll Gardens and Boerum Hill—each home to an array of boutiques, restaurants and specialty shops.

Though small in size—the island stretches only 13.4 miles—Manhattan encompasses a diverse and exciting cityscape, a patchwork of distinct neighborhoods with the 843-acre Central Park at its heart. First-time visitors may want to see iconic landmarks such as the Chrysler Building or Rockefeller Center, while others choose from among dozens of museums and cultural attractions. Arts lovers can take in performances from the stages of Broadway to the jazz clubs of Harlem. Shoppers, meanwhile, can find entertainment along Fifth Avenue or an afternoon browsing the boutiques of the Upper West Side or TriBeCa.

Even within a city known for its diversity, Queens stands apart: no county in the United States counts natives of more countries among its residents, and more than 130 languages are spoken throughout the borough. The result? Neighborhoods that are continually influenced by other cultures, and the chance to explore their many tastes and traditions. Enjoy flavors from around the world in Astoria (Greek), Jackson Heights (Indian) and Flushing (Asian). See art and events at a variety of centers from P.S.1 Contemporary Art Center to the Noguchi Museum to Socrates Sculpture Park—all in Long Island City, a quick trip from Midtown Manhattan.

Though accessible by car, a more scenic route to Staten Island is by way of the Staten Island Ferry—the free ride brings great views of the harbor and Statue of Liberty. Once there, the St. George Ferry Terminal is the gateway to a number of attractions. Walk to the Staten Island Museum, the historic St. George Theatre and the 83-acre Snug Harbor Cultural Center & Botanical Garden (home to the Noble Maritime Collection and the Staten Island Children’s Museum). Gray Line New York Sightseeing now also offers a one-hour tour—an easy way to take it all in, from the top sights to beautiful landscapes.

Forecast

New York City has four seasons, with the summer months of July and August bringing the hottest days. Autumn, marked by crisp air and blue skies, is considered by many the most beautiful time to be outdoors. Winter temperatures drop considerably—January and February are often the chilliest months—with occasional snows blanketing the City. Spring can feel later to arrive than its official April start, but when the weather turns it brings light winds, showers and the return of green to City parks and other public spaces.

Geographic Orientation

The City's five boroughs—the Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens and Staten Island—are linked by bridges, tunnels and ferries. Manhattan is an island only 13.4 miles long and 2.3 miles across (at its widest). Except at its southern and northern tips, it has avenues running north and south, streets running east and west. Traffic generally travels one way, going east on even-numbered streets and west on odd-numbered streets. Fifth Avenue divides Manhattan into the east side and west side. Street addresses increase with their distance from Fifth Avenue, usually by 100 per block. Twenty north-south blocks equal a mile. If you're at 14th Street and your destination is 50th Street in Midtown, your travel direction is uptown to get there. Sixth Avenue is also known as Avenue of the Americas.

Sales Tax

New York City sales tax is 8.375%. There is no sales tax on clothing and footwear items under $110. A tax of 4.375% is charged when the item's cost exceeds $110.

Smoking

Throughout New York City, smoking is prohibited in all public areas including subway stations, taxis, restaurants and bars. Cigar bars that register with the City are permitted to allow cigar smoking.

Tipping

Many New Yorkers in the service industries (hotels, restaurants and transportation) have tips factored into their wages. Here's a guide to how much you should tip for service:

- Hotel doorman: $1 for hailing a cab
- Porters and bellhops: $1–$2 per bag
- Hotel cleaning staff $1–$2 per day of your visit, or as much as $5 per day

Transportation

New York City is an international hub, with thousands of daily flights in and out of the City at competitive prices. Three major airports—JFK, LaGuardia and Newark—are within one hour of Midtown Manhattan. Twenty-four-hour transit lines, from buses and ferries to subways and commuter trains, connect the five boroughs of the City. Subways have announcements indicating the next stop, and all buses and select subway stations are wheelchair accessible. Designated yellow taxicabs are also available to assist persons with disabilities.

Transportation

The City's five boroughs—the Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens and Staten Island—are linked by bridges, tunnels and ferries. All street corners are wheelchair accessible.

One of the best ways to get around town is by mass transit—an extensive system of public buses and subway trains operated by the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA). The system is modestly priced and runs 24 hours a day, every day. Customers with disabilities are permitted to bring their service animals into all MTA transit facilities (as well as all other public spaces of the City). The animals must be securely leashed for the safety of all customers.

Refer to Useful Numbers and Websites, at the back of this section, for more MTA information. Call 718-330-1234 for bus and subway schedules, station and route information and updates.

Note: All subway stations listed in this guide are wheelchair accessible.

MTA Features and Services

MetroCard and MetroCard Vending Machines

Purchasing a MetroCard is your first step to getting around the City by subway or bus. MetroCards can be purchased at subway stations—from automated machines (which accept cash, ATM/debit cards and credit cards) and station attendants—or by contacting the MTA (mta.info or 212-638-7622 or 718-596-8585 voice). Customers with visual impairments may use an audio feature that prompts them through the use of the machine. To activate the audio feature, press 1# on the vending machine (you must use your personal headset, such as those used with tape players, to access the feature). Braille instructions are located at the base of the screen. Varying discounts are given for multiple rides, as well as for seniors (ages 65 and over) and people with disabilities.

MetroCards are valid on MTA buses and subways.

NYC Essentials: Transportation

Buses

Public buses are an excellent way to see the City (as well as a way to reach destinations not convenient to a subway stop). All City buses accept MetroCards and exact fare in coins, except pennies. Buses operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week (there may be a few exceptions in more remote corners of the City). Waiting time varies, but it's usually 5–15 minutes, depending on the time of day. Travel can be slow when there is a lot of traffic, and buses are often more scenic than underground subways. Buses generally stop at alternating blocks on avenue routes and at every block on cross-street routes. (Note: MetroCards cannot be purchased on buses. Unlimited MetroCards are not valid on express buses.)

NYC Transit has the largest accessible fleet in the world. Every bus is accessible to people in wheelchairs via front- or rear-door lifts; some newer buses have low floors that enable customers to enter via front-door ramps. Some buses have a “kneeling” feature that lowers the front entrance of the vehicle to within inches from the ground for easy access by any customer with mobility impairments or difficulty using the front steps. The driver will position the bus to deploy the lift safely or operate the kneeling feature. Priority seating for customers with disabilities and senior citizens is located behind the driver. Other passengers must make these seats available upon request.

- New York City Transit and Long Island Bus serve local and express bus routes throughout the five boroughs and in Nassau and western Suffolk counties. These routes connect with many subway and commuter rail stations, as well as key transportation hubs.
- Personal Care Attendants (PCAs) accompany and assist individuals with disabilities. PCAs are eligible to ride subways and local buses free when accompanying a person who is carrying an Access-a-Ride paratransit identification card with the notation “PCA.”
- Wait near the bus stop sign where the driver can see you and you can signal to the driver.
- Make sure you have the correct bus by checking the front destination sign, listening to the recorded announcements on many LI Bus vehicles and some NYC Transit vehicles or asking the driver.

Subways

One of the quickest ways to travel around the City is by subway. Subway trains operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and are often faster than street-level transportation. Stations are generally about eight to 10 blocks apart. (Note: Subways do not travel to Staten Island. To get there, take the Staten Island Ferry (free) to St. George Terminal. Once there, the Staten Island Railway has four accessible stations: St. George, Dongan Hills, Great Kills and Tottenville; there is also a free transfer from Manhattan buses to the Staten Island Railway from the Staten Island Ferry.)

The NYC Transit network currently has 82 ADA-accessible subway and commuter rail stations. These stations have features that improve accessibility for customers with visual, hearing and mobility impairments, as specified by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). Note: Not every subway station is accessible, and some are only accessible in one direction. Be sure to plan your trip carefully.

Entering and Exiting Subway Stations

All accessible subway stations in the Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan and Queens are equipped with AutoGate, an automatic entry/exit gate that allows people who have ambulatory disabilities, are accompanied by a service animal or use a wheelchair to enter and exit the subway system.

AutoGates are located at subway station booths and at stations where no station agent is present. You must have a Reduced-Fare AutoGate MetroCard to enter and leave the station through the AutoGate (the card also works with conventional turnstiles). This card also entitles customers to reduced fares on these other MTA services: Long Island Bus, Long Island Rail Road, Metro-North Railroad, MTA Bus, Westchester County Bee-Line buses (certain exclusions apply) and Staten Island Railway.

To apply for a Reduced-Fare AutoGate MetroCard, call 718-243-4999 (voice) or 718-596-8273 (TTY), Mon.–Fri., 9am–5pm; download an application from mta.info/nyct/fare/rfapply.htm; or go to the NYC Transit Customer Service Center at 3 Stone Street in Lower Manhattan (near the ADA-accessible Bowling Green subway station). A temporary Reduced-Fare AutoGate MetroCard is available to City visitors.

Boarding, Riding and Exiting Subway Cars

- Wait for the train near the middle of the platform, where the car with the conductor normally stops. There are boarding-area signs on all ADA-accessible subway station platforms.
- ADA-accessible stations have

two-foot-wide yellow tactile edge-warning strips. Make sure that you stay behind the strip until it is time to board the train.

- If you are in a wheelchair, position it about three feet from the edge of the platform and make sure you've locked your brakes. Never position your wheelchair between a station column and the platform edge. This creates an obstacle to passenger flow and is a safety hazard for you and other passengers.
- At most stations there is a gap between the platform edge and the subway car; on curved platforms the space is more significant. Be extra careful when crossing these gaps. (The vertical gap on accessible subway station platforms is lower toward the center of the platform, near the conductor's position.)
- Once on board, position your wheelchair close to either end of the car and near, but not blocking, the doors. Please lock your brakes.
- If you miss your stop at an ADA-accessible station, stay on the train until you reach a station where you can transfer on the same platform to a train in the opposite direction and ride back to the station you missed. Ask the conductor or train operator if you need help.

Tactile-Braille Subway Maps

Tactile-Braille subway maps can be obtained from NYC Transit; the Baruch College Computer Center for Visually Impaired People has produced a series of raised-line Braille maps with large print for each subway line. Tactile-Braille overview maps of each borough and station maps for 66th St. / Lincoln Center, 74th St. / Roosevelt Ave., Jay St. / Borough Hall and 59th St. / Lexington Ave. are available. These maps are free. To order, call 718-393-4131. Expect your order to arrive in six to eight weeks.

All ADA-accessible stations and newly renovated stations have tactile-Braille signage that is located on the subway entrances, elevators (if applicable) and some platform columns.

Taxis and Vans

Taxicabs operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and accept cash, debit and credit cards.

New York City is famous for its yellow (medallion) taxicabs—they are the preferred mode of travel for many people. All medallion taxicab drivers are required to assist persons with disabilities, and are trained to do so. More than 130 medallion taxicabs are wheelchair accessible and may be hailed on the street. In August 2008, the City launched a pilot program under which a person in need of an accessible taxi can call 311 or 212-639-9675 or the Taxi and Limousine Commission (TLC; 718-666-4067 voice) to be connected to a dispatcher. Many for-hire vehicles (FHV), or livery cars, have been fitted with fare meters to be able to participate in this program, making it easy for prospective passengers to arrange an accessible trip. With the following additions, regular taxi rules and fares apply for both hailed and dispatched vehicles:

- All drivers must assist the passenger to and from the curb, and secure the passenger and mobility aid (i.e., wheelchair) in the vehicle.
- All drivers must secure the passenger's packages in the vehicle and retrieve them for the passenger at the end of the ride.
- All drivers must provide transportation for the passenger's service animal and as many companions as can be seated in the vehicle, if applicable.
- Dispatched driver must wait at the curbside pickup spot for at least 10 minutes after the pickup time designated by the dispatcher, if the passenger is not already at the pickup spot.
- Dispatched driver must not turn on the fare meter until the designated pickup time or until the vehicle arrives at the pickup spot, whichever is later. Fare will include wait time necessary for the passenger to arrive curbside and enter the vehicle.
- Hailed driver must not turn on the fare meter until the passenger and mobility aid are secured in the cab.

Sightseeing

Many of the City's major monuments and attractions are among America's iconic landmarks—the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, the Empire State Building, the Brooklyn Bridge, the United Nations and Rockefeller Center. But that's only the beginning. Every borough offers points of interest and places you'll want to explore, and there are plenty of tour companies and transportation services to take you there.

Arts & Entertainment

Every season showcases new theater, classic revivals and long-running hits—on and off Broadway. There are dramas, comedies, musicals, experimental works, interactive performances and children's theater. Music and dance abound at the New York City Ballet and the Beacon Theatre. Catch celebrity performers or spot a star on the rise. When it comes to live performances, any show can be the one that gets people talking. Many of the City's theaters offer an array of services for people with visual, hearing and mobility impairments.

04 Museums

New York City is recognized worldwide as a center for arts and culture. Landmark institutions such as the Museum of Modern Art and Metropolitan Museum of Art feature extensive permanent collections as well as a changing lineup of special exhibitions. There are also a number of institutions—the American Folk Art Museum, the Museum of the City of New York and the Rubin Museum of Art—that take a more focused approach. Many of the City’s museums offer services for people with visual, hearing and mobility impairments.

05 Dining

The flavors of the five boroughs take form in ways that are alternately traditional and modern, innovative and unexpected. Follow world-renowned chefs to their latest restaurants, or satisfy a particular craving at one of the City's many ethnic eateries. Begin the day with "a bagel with a schmear," dress up for a night of fine dining, or grab a deli sandwich or a slice of pizza between sight-seeing stops. Whatever your mood, taste or budget, New York City is the place that serves it.

Nightlife

For some, the NYC experience doesn't begin until nightfall—or end until daybreak. Whether you're more comfortable mingling with glitterati in the lounges of the Meatpacking District, sipping a Shiraz in your hotel bar or tossing back a locally brewed ale in Brooklyn, there's no shortage of ways to spend the evening. Consider a night of jazz or a comedy club, a sports bar to catch the big game or a nightclub to dance the night away.

07 Sports

For outdoor enthusiasts and other active visitors, the City has plenty of options. There are a host of major and minor league teams to cheer on. Enjoy pro basketball and hockey action at Madison Square Garden, home of the Liberty, Knicks and Rangers. Catch the Yankees and Mets in their new dugouts or see their farm teams, the Staten Island Yankees and the Brooklyn Cyclones, respectively. The Garden and the City's baseball stadiums are wheelchair accessible, as are other major sporting venues around town.
